Sale of Keystone in Doubt.

A report is current that the sale of the Keystone, or rather the option thereon, has fallen through. The intending purchasers paid $5000 upon the delivery of the agreement, another payment of $15000 was to have been made within ten days after the signing of the agreement, and this was due over a week ago, and it has not been forthcoming. From this it is believed that the intending purchasers after full investigation concluded not to enter upon the task under the agreement. Word came over Monday that the entire mill is idle, scarcely any one is working about the property; the electric company has been notified that no more power will be required. This looks like a shut-down. The work set out under the terms of the option would have necessitated an outlay of $200,000 or more. Perhaps this expenditure dampened the ardor of the eastern capitalists who thought of investing. Such an amount would not have discouraged those conversant with mother lode mining. Indeed, many mining men claim that the Keystone was a cheap property at the figure named.

The question arises whether under the terms of the agreement the Keystone Company will not be required to refund the $5000 paid on the option.

According to report the mine has been run at a loss for several years. It needs exploration work at greater depth, and this will require a big outlay.

Died at Mojave.

Wm. H. Burns, a man well known in this and Amador counties where he has resided for ten or twelve years, died at Mojave Wednesday night last after a short illness from acute bowel trouble. Mr Burns had recently removed from Amador City to Santa Cruz with his wife and two daughters, for the purpose of giving the latter better educational advantages, and receiving a good offer to go to Randsburg, left his family at Santa Cruz and went out to the desert mining camp, where he was seized with his fatal illness. He started back home but succumbed at Mojave.

Mr Burns was a native of Ohio and 53 years of age. Besides his wife and two daughters mentioned, he leaves two married daughters—Mrs Lawrence L. White and Mrs A. L. Palmer both of Amador City. He was a brother-in-law of Grant and Seymour Hill and M. J. Williams of El Dorado. He formerly ran the engine at the Union mine at El Dorado, and there, as in the other places where he has resided, he is held in the highest esteem, and many friends will sympathize with his bereaved family in their sudden and overwhelming sorrow. He was a member of Henry Clay Lodge No. 95, F. and A. M. of Sutter Creek, under whose auspices the funeral will be held at Union church, El Dorado Sunday next, Rev. C. E. Matmann officiating.—Mountain Democrat.

Big Ball Game for Sunday

Next Sunday promises to be very interesting for the patrons of baseball. Arrangements have been made for a game on the grounds of the local club between the social and athletic club team, and a nine from Sacramento. The line-up of the visiting team is given as follows:

A GOOD REASON.

Jackson People Can Tell You Why It Is So.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure the cause of disease, and that is why the cures are always lasting. This remedy strengthens and tones up the kidneys, helping them to drive out of the body the liquid poisons that cause backache, headache and distressing kidney and urinary complaints. Jackson people testify to permanent cures.
Mrs J. Cook, living on Broadway, Jackson, Cal., says: "I can vouch for the merits of Doan's Kidney Pills. I suffered from kidney trouble for a long time and nothing helped me until I procured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at the City Pharmacy. I was in a run down condition, my back ached constantly, I had frequent dizzy spells, and my kidneys did not act properly. I started using Doan's Kidney Pills strictly as directed, they gave me relief from the first, I continued their use and was cured. My kidneys are now in a good condition and my back is well and strong. I am only too glad to endorse Doan's Kidney Pills."
For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and taken no other

Water Shortage.

Last Saturday the Standard Electric Company notified Mrs Richtmyer, the proprietress of the local water works, that on account of threatened shortage of the liquid element, the utmost economy must hereafter be practiced in the use of water. The sprinkling of vegetable gardens, lawns and streets must be stopped. Mrs Richtmyer notified her customers to that effect the same day. Any violation of this request will be apt to be followed by the cutting off of the water supply for all purposes.

A curtailment of the water used by the city in street sprinkling is also necessary, until the winter rains replenish the watersheds and storage reservoirs. The mines have been notified of the impending famine so as to be prepared in case it becomes necessary to shut the supply off wholly or partially. Unless copious rains come within the next two weeks the probability is that the mining industry will be temporarily crippled. However, Amador county has been very fortunate in regard to the water supply. There has been but trifling interference with the mining business on this score for many years. The requirements of the local interests in regard to water have always been deemed paramount. As long as there is water to be had, the mines of Amador will be given the precedence.

Bradshaw for Constable Retires in favor of McKenzie

At the republican district convention held in Volcano for the purpose of making a nomination for constable to fill the vacancy caused by the death of T. C. McKenzie, there was but one candidate for the position. Clarence Bradshaw received the nomination by acclamation. The election is for the unexpired term, which runs until January, 1911. The certificate of nomination was filed with the county clerk on Saturday.

It is reported that C. Elmer McKenzie, the son of the deceased constable, will run as an independent candidate for the office. We have not heard of the democrats putting up anyone for the position.

Clarence Bradshaw, after looking over the situation, concluded to resign, and leave the field to McKenzie. McKenzie has no competitor, the democrats having failed to make a nomination. He is the right man for the office, and as an independent, under the circumstances, would have defeated any man that could have been pitted against him by either party. His political affiliations have been with the republicans. It was a graceful thing to leave the field clear for him.

Birthday and Reception Party.

A joint birthday and reception party was given at the residence of Mrs P. Guerard on Tuesday evening. It was for the double purpose of celebrating the birthday of Mr Guerard, and also as a reception to Mrs Lemm as delegate from the local lodge of the Degree of Honor to the grand lodge which met in San Francisco last month. The guests were confined to members of the order. It is customary for the members to give a reception to the grand delegate upon her return from the grand lodge but this year Mrs Guerard tendered this honor at her own expense. About fifteen members were present and spent a most enjoyable evening. The hostess provided an elegant supper for the company.

The Glavinovich Failure.

The store of L. J. Glavinovich is still closed, and in the charge of the sheriff. It is believed, however, that a compromise will be effected on the basis, so it is reported, of fifty cents on the dollar. The board of trade creditors have agreed to the terms offered, and are now endeavoring to get those creditors who do not belong to the board of trade to accept the same terms. The outside creditors comprise fully one-third of the liabilities. It takes time to secure the consent of these scattered creditors. No doubt they will all fall in with the arrangement and if so the store will be reopened shortly. Glavinovich, if a settlement is effected, intends to close out, and go into business elsewhere.

MINING NOTES.

Original Amador.—At this mine they have commenced grading for a transformer, with the intention of substituting electricity as the motive power, instead of the present gasoline hoist. It is expected to have the new power installed within two months.

Keystone.—Only four stamps of the mill were in operation the first part of the week, the old company cleaning up all in sight, before turning the property over to the new management. A large number of men have been laid off, and many have left, making the town quieter than it has been for years. The outlook for Amador, however, was never brighter. There is no doubt that with development work judiciously prosecuted the Keystone will ere long rank with the best producing mines of the county.

The South Spring Hill.—Another prospective rich property is likely to commence active work before long. With the Bunker Hill and Fremont, both in a measure tributary to the town, the outlook is very encouraging for the business interests of this bustling little camp.

Slightly Colder with Snow.

An Efficient Teacher Retires.

With the close of this school week Miss Alice Gartlin retires from the Jackson public school. She tendered her resignation some weeks ago, but consented to remain at her post until the trustees could secure a suitable teacher to fill her place. Miss Vannie McLaughlin has been engaged to fill the vacancy, and will enter upon her duties next Monday.

Miss Gartlin has been teaching in the schools of Amador county for the past twenty years, and for the last ten years has been employed in the Jackson school. Such a protracted term of continuous employment in one place is in itself a tribute to her efficiency as an instructor of children. It is only a simple act of justice to say that Miss Gartlin has justly earned the reputation of being one of the best teachers Amador county has ever had, and her retirement will be regretted in educational circles. She is well posted in all the details of teaching, and has the rare faculty of being able to impart instruction to others, as well as to maintain discipline among those entrusted to her care. After her long service she felt that she needed a rest, and hence resigned for that purpose. It is to be hoped for the interest of the public that her retirement from the schoolroom is not permanent, and that after a vacation she will re-enter the field of labor for which she has proved herself so well fitted.

For Chronic Diarrhoea.

"While in the army in 1863, I was taken with chronic diarrhoea," says George M. Felton of South Gibson, Pa. "I have since tried many remedies but without any permanent relief, until Mr A. W. Miles, of this place, persuaded me to try Chamberlain's colic, cholera and diarrhoea remedy, one bottle of which stopped it at once." For sale by Jackson Drug Store Spagnoli, Prop.

A Pleasant Evening Party.

Miss Minnie Gardella entertained a number of friends at the home of her sister, Mrs H. Garbarini on Mason tract on Saturday evening. The rooms were prettily decorated with ferns. The evening was spent in playing cards and games of all kinds; also a guessing contest of which Will Tam won first prize and Miss Tessie Toon the consolation prize. Dainty refreshments were served at midnight. Those present were Mayme Levazio, Tessie Toon, Amelia Piccardo, Mabel Bolitho, Rose Sanguinetti, Minnie Gardella, Messrs Will Tam, Al Woolfork, Frank Arata, Julius Piccardo, John Fontenrose, Joe Gardella. All departed after having spent an enjoyable evening.

Betting on Taft.

Betting is an extremely dull business in this presidential election. It is reported that $150 has been deposited with a firm in Jackson with instructions to bet that amount on Taft against $125 that any Bryan enthusiast may put up. The backer of the Nebraskan on this lay-out has not been heard from yet. They are a little shy about venturing any coin on the third-term candidate.

DESERTING BRYAN.

While some democratic papers, banking more upon the party name and organization than upon any fixed principles represented thereby, are striving to make light of the fact, there is no doubt a serious defection of old-line democrats from the standard of Bryanism. The deserters include men of character and intellect who have heretofore stood high in the councils of the party, and whose opinions have been given due weight by their political conferees. M. S. Tarpey of this state is a fair type of these deserters. They are to be found in every state in the Union. In one state two persons nominated on the Bryan electoral ticket have stepped down and out because of their inability to keep step to the many "isms" of Bryan. Of course, the office-holding and office-seeking class profess to swallow the hodge-podge stuff dished up for them by the man from Nebraska as a party platform. They do so from motives of self-interest, although ever and anon one possessed of more moral courage than the average raises the voice of protest, and announces his repudiation of Bryan democracy. The bolters are denounced by the bread-and-butter wing as weak-kneed, wobbling democrats, whereas in truth they constitute the bone and sinew and life blood of the party. They are disgusted at the Bryanite tactics of trying to patch up a platform with the idea of catching every bunch of stray votes in the country. The reaching out to accomplish the impossible—namely to frame a declaration of party principles that will suit every individual—is a perilous undertaking. It is generally as effective in scattering as in attracting votes. So Bryan is finding out in this campaign as he did in his two previous campaigns. Stalwart democrats don't know what to make of his assault upon the courts in the anti-injunction plank; financiers are scared of his plan of the guarantee of private depositors in banks by the national government; manufacturers are afraid of his proposed methods of tariff revision. And so prominent cases of defection are cropping up all around, and his long-nursed hopes of being the chief magistrate of the nation are fading away for the third and last time. In Bryan's first campaign Cleveland, the foremost democrat and president of the United States was against him on his free silver platform. He was roundly abused by the same crowd that hold party fealty above everything else; but today his memory is honored by men of all political creeds for the lofty patriotism he manifested on that occasion. Bryan's views today, shifted somewhat it is true from the political gospel he preached twelve years ago, are just as visionary and inimical to the prosperity of the country as they were in 1896. People flock to hear him now as they did then. The music of his voice is still potent to charm them; but as the head of this nation they want none of his kind. They prefer the well-beaten paths of republican rule, which has never failed to bring about prosperity.

The capital removal question is scarcely heard of in this campaign. It made a great furore when the bill authorizing its submission to a vote of the people was before the legislature. The scheme seems to have died at its birth. At any rate it is a dead issue now. The governor is not required by the act to include the issue in his election proclamation. It will doubtless get on the ballot in some way, and be voted down overwhelmingly.

The contest for supervisor in the fourth district is warming up. D. Fraser, incumbent and democratic candidate for reelection, is working hard to hold his seat. Fred Werner is equally hard at work to displace him, with strong hopes of success. Surely the taxpayers are anxious for a change in the board, a change in road management, and the upsetting of ring methods. A vote for Werner, the republican nominee, will contribute to these worthy ends.

HONEST AMERICANS.

Incidents That Greatly Surprised a Visitor From Germany.

On his first visit to the United States a German manufacturer was the guest of a kinsman in New York. He expressed surprise when, a few days after his arrival, he saw a number of men help themselves to papers at an unattended newsstand, where some men laid down the exact price for their purchase, others made change for themselves and still others walked away without paying. He was told that the last named group were customers who paid only once a week, but that no one ever failed to pay.

To demonstrate his contention that "most people are honest in this country" the Americanized German took his visitor that day to a restaurant where both were unknown, and when they had finished their luncheon the host went to the cashier's desk with his check and said he had no money with him, but would pay the next day.

The cashier gave the couple a hasty glance and said, "All right; I'll take a chance," and the men started for the street. At the door a right about face movement was executed, the check was paid, a good cigar was handed to the cashier, to whom the plot was revealed, and the German exclaimed, "Grossartig!" (magnificent).—Chicago News.

A CINGALESE DAINTY.

It is estimated that two-thirds of the island of Ceylon is undermined by white ants. The number of these insects is certainly quite incalculable, but it is fortunate that their natural enemies are almost as numerous.

The workers are preyed upon by true ants and many other insects; by spiders, lizards and centipeds; by rats, mice and palm squirrels. But it is the adult winged insects that are especially victimized. It is probable that scarcely 1 per cent of the mature insects survive the dangers of the periodic fights.

They run the gamut of nearly every other animal. Birds, bats, squirrels, rats, toads and lizards all flock to the feast. Dogs and cats eat the winged ants with avidity.

"Even man himself does not disdain to participate," says E. E. Green. "The Tamil coolie looks upon a mess of fried termites as a great dainty, and I have several European acquaintances who consider that termites on toast form a dish worthy of more general inclusion in the menu. They are said to taste not unlike mushrooms."—Agricultural Journal of Ceylon Botanic Gardens.

The Warning Signals.

A Boston physician tells a story of a youngster of his own that an over-strenuous vacation had put on the sick list. The father had an appropriate prescription filled and left the bottle with the child's mother. As she, however, is very forgetful, he gave her a chart and suggested that she set down the hours when the medicine should be given, checking off each dose as taken. Upon returning from his evening calls, however, he found the chart blank.

"Good gracious, Mary!" he exclaimed. "Surely you haven't failed to give Tom his medicine?"

"Oh, no. I did not miss a single time," his wife assured him.

"How in the world did you remember it without the chart?" he asked.

She smiled.

"That was easy. I just told Tom this morning at what hours he was to have it, and half an hour before each time he would begin hallooing that he wouldn't take it."—Philadelphia Ledger.

The French Are Good Travelers.

The French on their travels are the very reverse of the English. Imperturbably amiable, they never grumble and without the slightest effort, as a mere matter of course, make the best of everything. I have made journeys with many French friends of both sexes, young, middle aged and elderly, often in out of the way places meeting with discomforts enough. Nothing ruffles their temper. Pleased to enjoy fresh scenes with a genial companion, they extract the utmost possible pleasure from every incident, even little annoyances being turned to good account.—Miss Betham-Edwards in London Chronicle.

What He Would Keep.

When the late Francois Coppée was elected to the academy, he told his friend, Theodore de Banville, that he wished he were in too. Banville declined to canvass.

"Suppose your nomination were brought to you one fine morning on a silver salver?"

"I don't know what I should do with the nomination," said Banville, "but I should certainly keep the salver."

Financial Advice.

"Here's a man," said the old citizen, "who lost $5,000 in a bank where he put it for safe keeping. Bill, don't you ever take no risk like that. If ever you gets hold of any money, do like your father before you done—bury it an' spen' the rest of your life sittin' over it with a shotgun."—Atlanta Constitution.

A Verbal Bracer.

"My wife," said the first clubman, "always mixes me a cocktail when I go home feeling frazzled."

"You're in luck," declared the second clubman. "The best I get is a china fizz."—St. Louis Republic.

A LOST JOKE.

Would Be Imitator of a Witty Man Made a Ludicrous Finish.

Congressman Quarles used to tell this: "I was a guest of a leading banker at dinner, one of your New York giants of finance, who had invited nearly a score of us to eat a bit, drink a bit and swap notions. Everything was lovely until the fifth course. The waiter was bringing in what appeared on the menu as 'langue fume' aux episards," what we common old roustabouts call smoked beef tongue with spinach—and my favorite dish. He tripped at the door and spilled the tongue and greens on the carpet. The host, equal to the occasion, relieved us all, especially the waiter, by saying jovially: 'There's no harm done, gentlemen. 'Tis merely a lapsus lingue.' It was about the cleverest play of words I ever heard."

"Among the guests was a Broadway merchant, up from the gutter, worth about $3,000,000 and proud of his vocabulary, which was not unlike Mrs. Malaprop's," continued Quarles. "He shook with merriment at the banker's wit. The happy effect induced him to give a dinner the following week, with about the same guests, and, as I happened to learn afterward, he had directed his servant to let fall a piece of roast beef on the floor. The servant faithfully performed his part. Down went a splendid first cut, weighing about fifteen pounds, the delicious juices spattering everywhere. We all felt hurt at the accident. Some even groaned. 'Be not uneasy, my friends,' chirped the would be witty host. 'tis only a lapsus lingue.'"—New York Press.

One View of the Kiss.

The olfactory kiss is Mongolian. The nutritive affair is European. The Mongolian kiss is with the nose. The European kiss is with the mouth.

The Mongolian kiss indicates that the party snuffed would be an agreeable prey. The European variety indicates that the party embraced would make a delectable meal.

They are but the different forms of the same instinct of preservation—the give and take of wild beasts.—Exchange.

Art of the Superior Smile.

The superior smile is a useful accomplishment for any young man. It is much in vogue at the universities, where it may be studied at its best on young Don. Many men who learn nothing else at the universities learn this art and find it uncommonly useful in after life. It is an excellent cover for a naked mind and should be sought after by parliamentary candidates.—Oxford Varsity.

Flooring Papa.

Five-year-old Tommy was being put through a test in numbers before the admiring family one day at dinner. Finally papa asked him the question that had proved the Waterloo of the older children in past years.

"Now, Tommy," said papa, "how many are two apples and three pears?" "Five fruits!" promptly answered Tommy.—Delineator.

LOCAL NEWS

Mrs F. W. Parker and daughter, Laura, returned Sunday evening from a visit with relatives in Oakland.

Mrs Oliver Clark and two children came home Sunday, after a stay of several weeks with friends in Oakland.

Nash Barton, who is employed in Sacramento, came up Sunday to spend a few days with his parents.

Mrs Holland, nee Gwinnie Williams, arrived Sunday from San Francisco, on a visit to her mother.

R. Giorgio, the United States immigration agent, who has been collecting statistics of the Italian residents of Amador county for the federal government has finished his work. He visited all the towns on the mother lode, and returned to Jackson Monday to make out his report relative to his section.

Buy the best sewing machines made, for sale cheap. Z. T. Justus, Well Bldg. Jackson.

Mrs Maherty of Kennedy flat has been very sick for the past two weeks with grippe and other complication.

Mr and Mrs T. J. Dwyer, who have been on a brief visit to the latter's parents, Mr and Mrs Steve Angove, left Monday for their home in Tonopah, Nev., where Mr Dwyer is employed in the office of Wells Fargo's express.

B. F. Taylor, who was so severely hurt last week by a fall while employed in taking down the old machinery at the Amador Queen mill in Hunts gulch, is getting along as well as could be expected. No complications have set in, and none are anticipated. It will be weeks, however, before he will be able to do anything at the mill.

On Tuesday last the team of Dr. Gall, while hitched to one of the porch posts in front of the City Pharmacy, became frightened, pulled the post clean out, and started down the street, with the long post dragging behind, and bobbing against the animal's legs or against the buggy, tending to scare them still more. They were stopped at the junction of Main and Water streets, and no damage happened to either horses or buggy. The displacement of the porch post was the only damage, and this was quickly replaced.

The skating rink was opened last Sunday afternoon and evening by the Jackson Military Band. The boys will hereafter do their practicing there, and carry on the skating business two evenings a week.

L. Keith, who has fixed up the Novelty theatre in the Webb building, and who expected to open up the latter part of last week, has been delayed owing to the non-arrival of a machine he ordered from San Francisco. The machine is of a new and improved pattern, and he did not want to open up without it. The machine was shipped yesterday, so he expects to get started in the moving picture line in a few days.

The Sunday school at the Methodist church will meet at 2 o'clock p. m. during the winter, and until further notice.

T. A. Chichizola, who has been in San Francisco for over a month, under surgical treatment for varicose veins in the leg, returned home last Saturday. He is very much improved. He was over from Amador City on Wednesday, and is able to get around a great deal better than before, although still suffering some from the effects of the complaint.

Investors—Write at once about first mortgage railway bonds netting 8 per cent. Swasey & Co. Brokers, Merchants Exchange Bldg., San Francisco. Oct. 9 4t

It is reported that Hiram Johnson, the well known attorney of San Francisco, has been engaged to defend Jackson Dennis, when the bank cases come up for trial in the superior court. He is one of the ablest criminal lawyers in the state.

The closing down of the Gwin, followed within a few days by the shutting down of the Keystone at Amador City, has thrown a large number of miners out of work. Daily a number of men apply for work at the mines of this vicinity. The uncertainty about the continuous water supply renders the situation still more dubious.

M. Newman left early this week for San Francisco. He is still troubled with rheumatism, and may conclude to take treatment at one of the many springs for relief. This will depend upon the recommendation of his physician.

Complaints are heard about the operations of petty thieves in robbing clothes lines. One family a few days ago, after hanging out a line full of ladies' clothing to dry through the night, found next morning the line had been scooped clean of its load. The night raiders are around, and families will do well to take warning, see that no clothing is left out for their benefit.

Dr. A. W. Sutherland, dentist, has moved from Amador City to Jackson, and has taken rooms in the Webb building, which he has fixed up with all necessary and up-to-date appliances. The depression caused by the stoppage of the Keystone impelled him to move from Amador to the larger field of Jackson, where he confidently expects to secure a fair share of patronage in the dental business.

J. H. Langhorst was the means of extinguishing a blaze Wednesday afternoon, but for his timely presence might have developed into a destructive fire. He was passing the old Ratto place opposite the bridge on north Main street. The house was gutted by fire about a year ago and has never been restored, and consequently vacant. Among the dry grass on the sidewalk and close to the fence, a fire had just started, the blaze already reaching a foot or more high. Of course he stamped it out easily. Evidently some careless smoker had thrown a lighted match, or cigar, and thereby started the blaze.

The electric lights were cut for nearly two hours last night, owing to some mishap at the substation in Sutter Creek. There was a scramble for coal oil lamps and candles in many of the stores. The users of gas, basking in light galore, were smiling at the discomfort of their less fortunate neighbors.

Dr. J. F. Wilson will leave tomorrow morning with his family for San Francisco, to be gone about ten days. The doctor goes as a delegate from the local lodge to the Grand Lodge of Masons, which convenes in that city next week.

The card of John Strohm democratic candidate for supervisor in this district, appears in another column. He is not on our side of the political fence, but if a democrat is to fill the office, we would just as soon have him fill it as any one else.

City Trustees.

Minutes of last meeting read and approved.

Father Gattin S. J. Will Open Mission for Austrians and Italians.

On Sunday next there will be Mass in St. Patrick's church at 10:30 a. m., at which Mass the Rev. Father Gattin of the Order of the Jesuits, will open a mission for both the Austrians and the Italians. He will speak in both Austrian and Italian. The Rev. Father Gattin, S. J., is a missionary of wonderful talent. He is a fluent speaker in Slavonian, Italian, German, Spanish and French. He is but a few months in this country having been sent by Pope Pius X as a missionary to the Austrians and Italians, and expects to master the English language in the near future. As a missionary he is a great success, having given missions all through the United States. It is to be hoped that the Austrians and Italians will avail themselves of this opportunity and come to hear the message of "good tidings of great joy." The Sunday school will be held at ten o'clock. The usual vespers in the evening.

M. Kearney, Assistant Pastor.

LOCAL TEAM OFF FOR JACKSON

With an array of talent that would strike terror even to a big league aggregation, Manager Charles Wearu, a noted impresario in the ranks of the national game, will leave for Jackson, Amador county, Saturday, to do battle with the team of that city that has been beating everything from an egg to the Stockton merchants of late. The defy came rolling down from the mountains last week to El Ropo Wearu with a P. S. saying that as much as $50 would be risked on the game with little chance of losing it. The return mail could not go fast enough to carry back the acceptance.

The Jackson team has as its mainstay a twirler who has seen service there for almost a decade, but is still as fine as silk. It was his twirling that put the Stockton merchants to flight in the recent game played at Jackson, and he still has a prescription prepared for the All-Sacramentos, as El Ropo Wearu has dubbed his team. Fred Cox will do the heaving for the All-Sacramentos, and will be backed by the best in the amateur ranks of the city. Every spare simoleon has been gathered by the locals, for they look for easy picking at Jackson and want to make a winning.—Sacramento Bee.

Restaurant Changes Hands.

The Italian restaurant heretofore known as the Eagle restaurant has changed hands. V. Giovannoni has disposed of his interest therein to G. Ceecchini of San Francisco, who came up several days ago and took charge. It was expected that another man from San Francisco would buy out the interests of others concerned and that the two would run it in partnership. This arrangement has fallen through. Ceecchini has decided to take the whole thing himself. His family is expected to arrive from San Francisco on Monday, and he and the other members of the family calculate to run the business themselves.

Arrested for Fraud.

A man named W. T. Krigbaum was arrested early this week in Oakland on a complaint sworn to by H. E. Kay of this city charging him with obtaining money under false pretences. It seems the defendant was in Jackson recently, and borrowed $15 from Kay, alleging that he had money coming to him from a party in San Francisco. He gave a sight draft on the man said to be owing him for the $15. This draft was forwarded to the city for payment, and word was sent back that drawee was not indebted to him for any sum, and payment was refused. Thereupon the charge was preferred. The accused was caught in Oakland. He was taken before a magistrate, and bail fixed in the sum of one hundred dollars. He put up cash bail and was released. No doubt the matter will be settled amicably.

Criminal Returns.

Township No. 1—Alfred Goldner, justice—Paul Campbell charged with misdemeanor by S. J. Pearce; plead guilty and fined $10 or to serve 40 days in jail and now in custody of the sheriff.

Manuel Mello charged with misdemeanor on complaint of Antone Mello; plead not guilty; bail fixed at $50 and defendant remanded to the custody of the sheriff upon failure to furnish bonds, September 14th defendant was released from custody by order of the district attorney.

Barns Burned.

Two large barns on the ranch of Mrs G. B. Ratto, on the old Chapman place, about five miles north east of Jackson, were destroyed by fire at an early hour Monday morning, with all their contents. The origin of the fire is unknown. The barns were located about fifty feet apart, and flames from the building where the fire started, ignited the other. There was an insurance of $600 on the buildings, and also a policy covering the contents of hay, etc., but how much we have not heard. The loss is over $1500. G. B. Ratto, the husband of the victim of this misfortune was killed two or three years ago near Pine Grove, by a tree falling on him while he was engaged in the act of cutting it down.

Died in the Hospital.

Jack Hallow, a Cornish miner, died in the county hospital on Sunday evening, after an illness of about one month. He had been lodging at John Chinn's, and remained there for several weeks after being taken sick, hoping to recover and resume his employment. His illness was of a typhoid character. Becoming worse he was removed to the county hospital a week ago last Monday. He was a native of England, aged about 55 years. His brother, T. Hallow, arrived from Grass Valley on Monday to take charge of the remains and arrange for the funeral.

The funeral took place Wednesday, interment in the city cemetery, Rev. E. U. Bruu officiating.

A Wonderful Escape.

On the 6th instant J. H. Bowman, a commercial traveler for a cigar firm, met with an experience he will not be likely to soon forget. He was on his way from Mokelumne Hill to Jackson driving a one-horse rig belonging to a Lodi livery stable. After passing Big Bar bridge and reaching that part of the road where on the west side there is a ravine over a hundred feet deep the horse backed the vehicle over the embankment, and the whole outfit, including the driver, went rolling over and over to the bottom of the gulch, fully one hundred feet. The strangest part of the story is that no serious damage was done to man, horse or buggy. Some teamsters happened along at the time, and by means of ropes the horse and buggy was pulled up into the highway. Bowman was able to scramble up himself, escaping with merely a few scratches. He drove on to town as though nothing had occurred, and related his marvelous adventure to his acquaintances, at the same time calling upon the doctor to dress his bruises.

From Our Exchanges.

An effort is being made by the church to get 50 men to pledge themselves to attend church once a month for eight months. The pastor heartily appreciates this plan and we trust that twice the above number of signatures may be secured to this simple pledge. We desire, not fewer women and children but more men in our services.—Folsom Telegraph.

The registration of El Dorado county voters totals 2706, as against 2527 two years ago. Two years ago the vote for governor totaled 2297, showing the 430 of those who registered failed to vote. The falling off in registration this year does not necessarily indicate a falling off in the actual vote cast two years ago.—Nugget.

An amateur highwayman, about 9 years of age, played hooky from the local school yesterday. He raided a barber shop and also a gun shop and loaded up with cutlery, a 22 rifle and a supply of cartridges. When apprehended he attempted to make way with some of the plunder by swallowing several cartridges. This morning he was excused from school for the day, the teacher recognizing his combative nature, and evidently fearing an explosion in case of a rumpus.—Nugget.

Milt Watt of the Preston School of Industry at Lone, spent last night in this city. He left this morning for Fairplay, in search of a couple of boys who took French leave from the state reform school at Lone. The boys escaped Tuesday evening, and all the officers in Amador and adjoining counties were notified. The local sleuths here, with their usual sagacity, wandered around with an air of mystery and mumminess which warned everybody that they were on a "still hunt" for something or somebody, and no little speculation was indulged in as to what was "doing." One of the boys who escaped is about 16 years of age and the other 18, both being quite well grown. It is likely that they parted company soon after leaving Lone, and as neither had any means with which to meet expenses they will no doubt be heard from soon. Publicity in a case of this kind is far better than suppression of all information.—Nugget.

Word has been received of the success of our former townsman J. C. Jones in his political aspirations. At the municipal election held in the city of Fallon, Nev., Monday Sept. 28, he was elected Mayor by a majority of 38.—Echo.

Amador Parlor No. 17 N. S. G. W. at Sutter Creek held a class initiation Friday evening Oct. 2 some 20 candidates were duly initiated. The Parlor of Lone, Plymouth, Jackson and Amador City were well represented. After the lodge ceremonies were completed all retired to the dining room and enjoyed a splendid banquet. This is the second large class initiation in the N. S. G. W. in Amador county. Jackson, Amador City and Plymouth will shortly follow with initiations of like character.—Echo.

FATHER AND DAUGHTER FORM A MANY SIDED FIRM

In the recorder's office there has been filed an agreement between Henry Perricone, living at Knights Ferry, and Mrs. Rosalie Cimo Morite. Its provisions are peculiar. In brief they specify:

Father is to employ daughter, who was divorced from her husband two years ago, for a term of five years, her compensation the first year to be $500. Any time during the other four, she will have the privilege of receiving wages or lease the ranch in lieu thereof. Should she elect she can instead of either plan, form a partnership with her father, shares in the property, which is the Dingley farm, to be equal. In case the place is sold she is to receive $1000. Should there be a dissolution of the contract, she is required to purchase a home to be not less than one mile from Sonora or within a distance of fifteen miles of either San Francisco or Los Angeles.

Following this condition, should the ranch be sold, the father is to make his home with her, he to pay all bills for goods and groceries.

While on the farm she is obliged to maintain, at all times, five hundred chickens. If she remarries, her salary is reduced to $175 per annum. Should she rewed her former husband or take a drinking or immoral man she cancels all the terms of the contract.

She is deprived of the privilege of having both her daughters with her at the ranch. They shall take turn about and their board shall be free to them.

Before there can be a change in the agreement it will have to be ordered by arbitration and it cannot be assigned unless both consent.—Banner.

GLOBE SIGHTS.

A dog is as bad as a boy in pestering a cat.

Nearly every man you meet should have his clothes cleaned.

If you want to see a woman crazy, advertise a good dish pan for ten cents.

A man never accumulates so much money that it gives him the right to be lazy.

A kicker is usually one who is not busily engaged in any business of his own.

Fully ninety per cent of the people you know will impose on you if they can.

A turkey is never tough because he is so good he is never allowed to become old.

A woman says of every hired girl she ever has: "My, but she can make the butter fly!"

No doubt economy is a great virtue, but some people have a lot of money they never have any use for.

The dollar you throw away when you are young will be worth $3 when you are old, and need it most.

Advice to women: A man doesn't amount to much, at best. In getting one, get the best one possible.

An Atchison girl is about to marry a man who is so small that she is obliged to lift him up to kiss him.

You don't always find money in a woman's pocketbook, but you are always sure to find a chamois skin.

There is no drug store that will kill disease as a shot gun will kill a pigeon. Every man must be his own doctor.

Love with a young man is never so serious as with a young girl, because he has his moustache to distract his attention.

A girl who has spent three or four years in studying music, and can't play decently, should begin studying something else.

When a man has buried several wives, the women, in speaking of him, say that he has "worn out two or three wives already."

When a boy is bad there is no rift in the clouds for the mother, but the father finds a ray of light in the reflection that at least the boy is not a sissy.

A plan that would fit the management of one husband, would be long where it should be short, and curved where it should be straight, in the management of another husband.

When two women fly into each other's arms with looks of love, their embrace jars two hats, and then see how quickly fond looks change to scowls.

Perhaps a wife's tenderness with a worthless husband is governed by the same instinct which makes her proud of anything she gets at a bargain counter.

Nearly all wives contradict their husbands. When a man tells a story his wife nearly always says, "No, it wasn't that way," etc., and the story is spoiled.

Having learned to paint a stork standing on one leg, Dasey Mayme Appleton feels that her education in painting is completed, and will take up music next.

There is nothing so unsatisfactory as to announce that you have a secret which no inducement can prevail upon you to reveal, and then have no one to coax you to break your resolution.

It often happens that people think a woman is going into a decline, when the real explanation of her sudden slenderness is that a dress-maker has been drawing in a straight front corset on her.

The editor of the Coolidge Enterprise was making assignments. "You," he said to a young reporter, "will be the Jennie Slim reporter. A girl who marries so young, and treats the marriage relation so lightly, will need a special reporter to follow her up for the end of her days."

There are a great number of persons in the world who are always asking hard questions. We have found it a good plan to confess that we do not know. It pleases the people who ask the questions, and saves you the trouble of trying to remember the year Julius Caesar built a bridge over the Rhine.

Mother Nature tore violently at the strings of her fall bonnet trimmed with sunflowers and golden rod, and grew purple in the face while she had a fit. Upon being revived, she was asked the cause. "Look at all the fruit on my trees that are not covered," she said, "and in this state that is a violation of the pure food law."

Then her eyes again began to roll.

THAT SIXTH SENSE.

Clairvoyants and persons of an intensely superstitious nature are sometimes said to possess a "sixth sense"—that is, they are conscious of the existence of things which are not to be realized through taste, touch, sight, smell or hearing.

But such an appeal to the brain can hardly be said to be through any body "sense," and therefore the "sixth sense" referred to does not really belong in that category. Science points out, however, that certain animals have the advantage over man that they are actuated by not merely six senses, but in some cases by even additional special senses. In describing some of these phenomena in the Paris Cosmos, the naturalist, E. Heriebar, says:

"A sense is defined by the action of a certain excitant on the organs, followed by a phenomenon of consciousness difficult to define.

"Vision is the action of light on the eye—a well-defined surface, of analogous constitution in all animals; but even when the eye does not exist there may still be reaction to light, as in the earthworm. This has been called a 'dermatoptic' sensation.

"Ordinary sensitiveness to light may be subdivided into two parts—a luminous and a chromatic sense—light and color. Touch may similarly be subdivided into a sensation of contact or pressure and one of temperature. In the pathologic condition known as 'syringomyelia,' characterized by the alternation of the gray substance of the spinal marrow, this differentiation of touch is shown spontaneously; the sensations of pain and of temperature are abolished, while that of contact remains unaffected. Touch should therefore be divided into three subsenses—sensitiveness to pressure, heat and pain.

"Along this line man is not always as well endowed as certain animals with special sense-organs; thus, the differences of pressure in the medium where he lives manifest themselves to him only more or less vaguely by impressions of well-being or discomfort; while the fish, provided with a swimming bladder, feels so precise a sensation, when obliged to rise or sink in the water, that he is enabled to resume his normal position by the action of this organ.

"On the other hand, in certain oceanic cephalopods, there have been found, on the caudal fin, special eyes with opaque lenses, organs adapted to the perception of heat rays.

"Senses simply differentiated in man may be found isolated in animals. The sensations of hunger, thirst, the reaction of the blood on the brain cells, also constitute supplementary senses; such, too, is the muscular sense that gives the impression of weight and the sense that furnishes an idea of the shape of bodies.

"As regards hearing, even when there is no auditive sense, there may exist a sensibility to vibration, residing in the bones. This is very delicate in fish and in certain worms.

"Among special organs of sensation animals we may note the horny bulbs along the nervures of mosquitoes, for indicating the periodicity of wing movements, and the organ in which resides the sense of verticality in the medusa—a sort of pendulum, whose contact with one side or the other of the cavity in which it hangs betrays an inclination from the normal upright posture.

"It is also a 'sixth sense' that informs an animal of its movements by means of the displacement of fluid in the semi-circular canals of the ear. This is the cause in man of the dizziness due to rotation; when we stop turning we seem to be turning in the opposite direction because the inertia of this fluid maintains it in motion. This phenomenon does not exist in deaf mutes."

It has been said that the form of nausea known as sea sickness is caused by the constant agitation of this fluid in a receptacle so close to the brain during the victim's constant effort to maintain a vertical position—the "sense" of verticality being also located in these canals, and therefore seeming to be really a true "sixth sense."—Datyon Journal.

How Things Are Reversed in Japan

In Japan the natives have a habit of reversing nearly everything, according to our accepted ideas of how things should be done. Thus, a Japanese workman pulls the plane toward him, a blacksmith blows the bellows with his feet, the cooper holds tubs with his feet, and nearly every one sits down to work. Horses are put in their stables reverse way, for the horse's flank is where his head should be. Japanese screws screw the other way, and Japanese locks lock to the left.

"Doan's Ointment cured me of eczema that had annoyed me a long time. The cure was permanent."—Hon. S. W. Matthews, Commissioner Labor Statistics, Augusta, Me.

People of the Arctic.

These people of the White World, these children of the snow and ice, give themselves little concern regarding what is going on in worlds beyond their own. The climate in which they live and the limitations of their whole environment make it impossible, writes J. L. Harbour in Leslie's Weekly, that there should be much change in their own manner of life, and they do not care for the changes that soap and water might make in their domestic life, while the women of the family are not anxious to adopt changes in methods of cooking that might make some of the dishes they prepare much cleaner and far less deadly than they appear to be. But the best-filled larder in the homes of the most affluent of the Eskimos offers but little in the way of variety in food, and the question so vexing to the American housewife, "What shall we have for breakfast?" or for dinner, or supper, never troubles the Eskimo housewife, since these meals may not vary for months at a time, and are prepared in the primitive way in which they were prepared by the Eskimos of generations and generations ago.

The dress of the women and the men is so much alike that if an Eskimo lady's husband's clothes happened to be better than her own she might borrow them to wear to some Eskimo society function without exciting any comment as to her dress.

As in some other lands, the man is regarded as a being vastly superior to the woman, and the birth of a girl is never regarded as a blessing. Indeed, it often happens that both father and mother resort to the unavailing folly of tears and lamentations when it is announced that a newcomer is a girl. A boy can become a great fisherman or a great hunter, while a girl—of what use is she? A mere cumbrer of the earth, regardless of the fact that she works as many hours a day as, and even more than a man when she reaches the goal of her ambition and marries. Not to marry is as sad a misfortune as may befall her, and if she is married and widowed she makes all possible haste to securing a second partner.

HE SILENCED HER.

Dinner had been over only ten minutes when Jones made a move down the hall for the hall tree and his hat, and the long-suffering Mrs. Jones followed after to say.

You have been out every night for a month. How long is this thing to last?

"Only until the campaign closes, my dear."

"But I don't see that it is necessary for you to be out every night until midnight. Last presidential election you were not out a single evening. In fact, you said the men who were whopping around nights were a pack of soft-heads."

"So they were dear, but last campaign is not this campaign. Last campaign things ran themselves, and there was nothing for the patriots to do. Now the country calls upon every one of them. Mrs. Jones, the very life of our country is hanging in the balance.

"Shall this country be ruled by patriots or traitors?"

"Is Bunker Hill to go for nothing, and are our liberties to be sold for a mess of pottage?"

"Shall I stand supinely by and see this great and glorious country go to destruction, or shall I lead the movement to still further exalt her?"

"Shall the American eagle still continue to soar on pinions proud, and Old Glory wave in every breeze that blows, or shall the bird become a crow and the flag a dishcloth?"

"Why, Thomas, is it as bad as that?" asked the wife in alarm.

"It's worse. The next gale that sweeps from the North—

"Then hurry right along and be gone as long as you want to."

And Jones went down to his club and played poker until 3 o'clock next morning.

WATT-KNOTT.

"Are you there?"

"Yes."

"Who are you, please?"

"Watt."

"What is your name, please?"

"Watt's my name."

"Yes; what is your name?"

"I say my name is Watt."

"Oh, well; I'm coming to see you."

All right. Are you Jones?"

"No; I'm Knott."

"Who are you, then, please?"

"I'm Knott."

"Will you tell me your name, please?"

"Will Knott."

"Why won't you?"

"I say my name is William Knott."

"Oh, I beg your pardon."

"Then you will be in if I come round, Watt?"

"Certainly, Knott."

Then they were cut off by the exchange, and Knott wants to know if Watt will be in or not.

SCIENTIFIC MISCELLANY

Reported weekly for the Ledger.

An Overlooked Motor.—Sampling the Upper Air.—Cellit, the Safe Celluloid.—Leaves as Photographic Lenses.—Horse-Power Told by Machine Belts.—Milk as Anti-Fat.—To Steer Backing Steamers.—Germless Drinking Places.

Fireless steam-locomotives are the safest of all engines for powder mills, cotton-plants and all places where great precaution against fire is necessary, and they are in demand, although electric motors take the place in underground traction for which they were originally intended. Their manufacture is a considerable industry at Tegel, near Berlin. Steam at high pressure is not used, but the locomotive has a large boiler, and about three-fourths of the space in this is filled with water, the other fourth with steam, the pressure being that of the boiler at the power station. The superheating of the water keeps up the steam for a long time. The Prussian State Railway has been finding this locomotive useful in covered stations for shunting, as well as for other special purposes, and in such intermittent work the machine easily runs four or five hours, operating well even when the pressure falls to one or two atmospheres, and propelling itself to the filling tank on one-fourth to one-half of an atmosphere. The refilling takes 8 to 15 minutes. The economy of the locomotive recommends it for various uses, as it saves the cost of a fireman, avoids loss in transporting fuel, seldom needs repairs, and requires no electrically-equipped track.

Samples of pure air from a height of 8½ miles have been collected by Teisserenc de Bort, the French investigator, in his observations on the rare gases, especially argon, neon and helium. The collecting apparatus—a vacuum tube drawn out to a fine point at one end—was carried up by a large sounding balloon. At the desired height, an electromagnetic device operated by a barometer broke off the point admitting the air, and a few minutes later a second contact sent a battery current through a platinum wire around the broken end melting the glass and sealing the tube. All samples thus obtained show argon and neon, no helium being found in air from above six miles.

In cellit, the perfected composition of a German chemist, Consul T. H. Norton of Chemnitz sees a material that must prove of great industrial importance. The cellulose acetate of some years ago, produced by the action of acetic acid on cotton or other cellulose, was compact and tough but of little use, but a new form of cellulose acetate has the valuable property of readily dissolving in alcohol or acetic ether, and especially the power of combining with camphor or other organic substances to form plastic masses like ordinary celluloid. These products—ranging from hard and tough to soft, leather-like, even rubber-like compositions—are cellit. All varieties are transparent, unaffected by water free from brittleness, and, above all, not readily combustible. For many uses, cellit can replace glass, gelatin, celluloid, leather and rubber, and it offers new possibilities by supplying a substance hitherto wanting that is at once as transparent as glass and as pliable as a woven fabric. In view of the reported fires at moving picture exhibitions, its use for cinematograph films seems to be the most important application yet made.

The remarkable possibility of using leaves as camera lenses was demonstrated by Prof. Wager at the late meeting of the British Association. In many leaves, the outer layer is so constructed as to act like a convex lens in bringing rays of light to a focus in the interior of the leaf, and through such living lenses photographs have been taken from other pictures as well as from a living subject, and from landscapes, houses, trees, and other objects. The clear definition in every case justifies the claim that the plant-cells act as efficient lenses.

Each 19,000 square inches of belt passing to a machine per minute represents one horse power in the rule that P. V. Vernon, an English mechanic, finds to agree with his experience. This is based on the estimate that the pull of a working belt on a pulley is 39.6 pounds per inch of width. Twice this power may be transmitted by a tight double belt, but this is regarded as an unwise overload, though motor and machine may have strength to stand the pull.

In favor of an exclusively milk diet as a means of reducing fat, Dr. P. Moritz, a German physician, urges the efficiency and simplicity of this treatment, and the absence of hunger and thirst and of all risk. He has worked out a plan of diet giving just milk enough to supply the minimum number of calories required by the normal weight. It is assumed that the number of centimeters of a person's height above 100 corresponds to the normal weight in kilograms, so that, for example, a man measuring 170 centimeters (5 feet 7 inches) should weigh 70 kilograms (157 pounds). To maintain this weight, the least number of calories required is found to vary from 16 to 17 per kilogram per day, although a workingman's full diet supplies 30 to 40 calories. The doctor's fattest patient was 5 feet 8 inches tall, and he weighed 298 pounds, or 83 per cent too much. The diet prescribed was 2 liters (3½ pints) of milk per day. This food supplied 1300 calories corresponding to 10.6 calories per kilogram of actual weight or 17.8 calories per kilogram of normal weight. In 81 days during which he continued his usual active labors, the patient lost nearly 45 pounds in weight, and a remarkable circumstance was that an old heart trouble seemed to have disappeared.

The bow rudder, giving increased maneuvering power to river and other light draft steamers is the invention of Alfred F. Yarrow, of the famous Glasgow firm of shipbuilders, whose specialty is steamers of this class. The rudder is quickly put in place or removed. It slides on a vertical shaft in front of the bow, and is raised or lowered by a tackle. When in use, a steering tiller is fitted to the head of the pivot shaft.

A new sanitary drinking fountain, recommended for public places, throws up a jet of water 3 or 4 inches when the faucet is pressed, and the lips are held over the jet to get a drink, instead of coming in contact with a drinking vessel that may have been infected with disease germs.

Why Colds are Dangerous.

Because you have contracted ordinary colds and recovered from them without treatment of any kind, do not for a moment imagine that colds are not dangerous. Everyone knows that pneumonia and chronic catarrh have their origin in a common cold. Consumption is not caused by a cold but the cold prepares the system for the reception and development of the germs that would not otherwise have found lodgment. It is the same with all infectious diseases. Diphtheria, scarlet fever, measles and whooping cough are much more likely to be contracted when the child has a cold. You will see from this that more real danger lurks in a cold than in any other of the common ailments. The easiest and quickest way to cure a cold is to take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. The many remarkable cures effected by this preparation have made it a staple article of trade over a large part of the world. For sale by Jackson Drug Store, Spagnoli, Prop.

A WOMAN'S TACT.

And the Way She Explained Her Diplomacy to Her Husband.

It being a holiday, the blundering man made calls with his wife. The first place they went the hostess said, "Julia is engaged."

"Is she, indeed?" said the man's wife radiantly. "Which one did she finally accept?"

The next place they were informed that Margaret was engaged, and again the man's wife beamed sympathetically and murmured: "Is she, indeed? Which one did she accept?" At the third place it was the news of Jessie's engagement that was broken to them. As before, the man's wife put the question, "Which one did she finally take?"

On their way home the man said: "Why did you ask 'which one' every time a new engagement was sprung on us? Are those girls so attractive that men were falling over each other in the scramble to get them for their wives?"

"Not at all," said his wife. "I don't suppose either of them ever had but one offer, and it is a wonder she got that. I shouldn't be surprised if the men back out even now before the wedding day. But you see, dear, I had to be diplomatic. Those people can do me many favors. The surest way to make myself solid with them is to pretend to think their girls so popular that every man in town was crazy to marry them."

"With my opportunities downtown," groaned the man. "If I had your genius we'd be millionaires inside of six months."—New York Sun.

FOES OF THE LEVEES.

"People who know little about our system of levees, the artificial banks built to confine the flood waters that pour into the Mississippi, no doubt imagine that the heavy rains are the only enemy with which the levees have to contend," said a Baton Rouge man.

"On the contrary, the levees, both during times of flood and low water, are subject to the incessant attacks of living foes, the destructive work of which costs millions of dollars. These foes are alligators, turtles, muskrats, field rats, fresh water terrapin and crawfish. Of all these burrowers that prey on the levees, excavating within them goodly chambers or tunnels, the crawfish do the most damage, with the turtles and terrapins a good second. The harm done by the alligators is comparatively small.

"In repairing the banks crawfish holes are often found of immense size. It is these hollow spaces that in time of freshets cause a caving in and break of the levees, which of course bring on an inundation of all the adjacent country. The worst part of the business is that no way of exterminating these pests has yet been found, and the only thing to be done is to try to keep them away from the banks as much as possible."—Baltimore American.

The Inquisitive Woman.

Street car conductors regard inquisitive women passengers with superstitious dread. The other day a fuse blew out in a Broadway car, and that car was hitched on as a trailer to the one ahead. Presently a woman began to ask questions.

"What would happen," she said, "if the fuse were to blow out in that car ahead? What would become of us? Would the car ahead of that be able to drag both of these cars?"

"I don't know," said the conductor. "But don't worry. We won't have a chance to find out. A double accident of that kind has never happened to a car of mine yet, and it isn't likely to happen once in a hundred years."

Just then there came an explosion ahead, and both cars came to a standstill. The fuse had blown out.

"Confound that woman!" growled the conductor. "That is all her fault. This wouldn't have happened if she hadn't asked so many fool questions. She's a Jonah."—New York Times.

It Paid.

A little boy of five years, playing with his sister one day, leaned too far out of the second story window, lost his balance and fell into the yard below. Very miraculously he escaped being injured, and his parents and friends were so delighted that they gave him quite a number of pennies, nickels and dimes.

The next day, after he recovered from the shock of the fall, he was counting his money and on seeing his little sister enter the room exclaimed: "Gee, Gladys, look at all the money I got for falling out of the window! Why don't you try it?"—Delinquent.

Manhood's Estate.

It is a very foolish convention which lays down that we are grown up when we have reached our twenty-first birthday. The real majority is reached when we begin to earn our own bread and butter and to bring forth the light which has been fostered in us by the care of others for the last ten or fifteen years. Self dependence and self reliance—that is the real manhood.—Isis.

The finest known collection of chained books is that in Hereford (England) cathedral. It includes about 2,000 volumes arranged in five book-cases, of which not less than 1,500 are secured by chains three or four feet long, each with a swivel in the center.

LOCAL EDITORIAL COLUMN.

VOTE FOR ENGLEBRIGHT.

While the election of Taft is a foregone conclusion, it is highly important that both branches of congress should be of the same political faith. As far as the congressional fight in this district is concerned, we believe that W. F. Englebright, the republican incumbent and candidate for reelection, is too strongly entrenched in the hearts of his constituents to be in any danger of defeat. His record as one of the most tireless and effective workers ever sent to congress from the Pacific coast, recommends him to all classes, regardless of party. His energy has been directed by sound judgment and ability to set forth his views forcibly, so that in the short experience of his congressional life he has gained a position of influence in the national legislature far above the average. He is the right man to send back to Washington to look after the interests of the first congressional district. He should, and we believe will be, returned by one of the largest majorities ever given to a congressman from this state. This would be a fitting recognition of the faithful services already performed. We do not know his competitor on the democratic side, E. W. Holland of Tuolumne county. He is the present district attorney of that county, and said to be serving the people satisfactorily in that capacity. So is Englebright in his sphere. It would be a pity to disturb either of them. The people are sufficiently alive to their own interests to keep each one in his present position of usefulness.

ORGANIZE FOR SELF-PROTECTION.

There are many ways in which a board of trade, or some organization of a similar character, would prove a protection to the business interests of Jackson. Suppose it cost a dollar a month from every businesshouse to support such an organization, that sum would be saved many times over in the course of every year by the more satisfactory business methods that would doubtless result therefrom. "In union there is strength," is true of the business world. A business man will naturally hesitate, when acting on his own responsibility, to take a decisive stand against some practice which he knows to be vicious and wrong, whereas he would be only too glad to do so in concert with others in the same line of business as himself. Little abuses flourish on the natural timidity of the average man to assume a position outside of the beaten path. He often submits to imposition because others in his line have submitted thereto. To be alone in protest, even though admittedly in the right, might injure his business. And so abuses are not only perpetuated, but actually encouraged to become more and more aggressive, from sheer lack of organization to present a united front against imposition.

As an illustration of this point we might cite the practice of soliciting advertisements from all classes of business and professional men to be inserted on the program of every entertainment gotten up for some local benefit. Two or three hundred programs are circulated among the audience in the hall on the night of the entertainment, and for the privilege of getting on this advertising medium each advertiser is held up to the tune of 50c or $1, according to space occupied. As many as between 50 and 75 advertising cards frequently appear on one of these programs. The revenue from this source is a vital factor in the calculations of the promoters of the affair. This nuisance—for such it is universally voted to be—has been of slow but steady growth. Years ago it was calculated that if the money from advertising was sufficient to pay for printing the programs it was doing well enough. But now the expectations from this source have so enlarged that advertisers are supposed to pay for all the incidental expenses of the show, leaving the receipts from admissions as clear profits. We understand that some have resolved to cut loose from this sort of useless advertising. It would be the proper thing to combine for the purpose of shutting down on this and kindred nuisances which are inimical to the established business interests of the town.

At the meeting of the board of city trustees held last evening an ordinance was introduced by trustee Kirkwood and read for the first time proposing to increase the retail liquor license from $15 to $30 per quarter. The ordinance recently defeated provided for a $45 tax per quarter. So that the new ordinance is a half-way measure. Whether it will be contested by the liquor interests when it come up for final passage next week remains to be seen. We presume the purpose of its introduction and passage between regular meetings is that it may become effective at the commencement of the next fiscal quarter in November. The trustees are evidently impressed with the necessity of raising more revenue for the city government, and think the saloons are better able to stand the raise than any other interest. Estimating the number of retailers at 30, the additional revenue, assuming that all will be able to pay, will be $1800 per year. As an offset to this the direct property tax was reduced 5c on the $100, making a total of $300.

A Slander Refuted.

(Communication)

To the Editor of the Amador Record, Sutter Creek, Cal.

It was with the utmost astonishment that I read in your issue of the 1st inst. that anything derogatory had ever been said in public, or privately expressed, of the unworthiness of the European laborers; when, as a matter of fact, your ancestors were of that breed of dogs called by our and your President of this Republic "an undesirable class." He (the president) being of the Dutch Knickerbocker stock, and you a menial of Puritanic persecution; afterwards becoming aiders and abettors of the horrible atrocity of the burning of witches at Salem, Massachusetts, in the name of religion and civil rights.

For your own sake, Mr Day, it is to be regretted that you were ever led to jump blindfolded into the seething cauldron of un-American race hatred.

On the face of matters it seems that you, a man of fine feeling, keen of the sense of delicacy and propriety, should have at least the perception, or conception, of investigation before engaging in billingsgate. It is not the Slavonian race alone that you assail in your tirade; but the basic foundation of our constitutional government. While it is true your statements may be misleading, they nevertheless lead heedless persons into error and lend an atom to the glorification of the idea that this country should be governed by the hands of the few—the rich—not the sinew and bone. In this land—the home of the free and the brave—it does not become any man to become so egotistical as to proclaim himself a tryant, when it is taken into consideration that ancestors of the author of the same were exiles and only came to this country to escape what he now would inflict upon others.

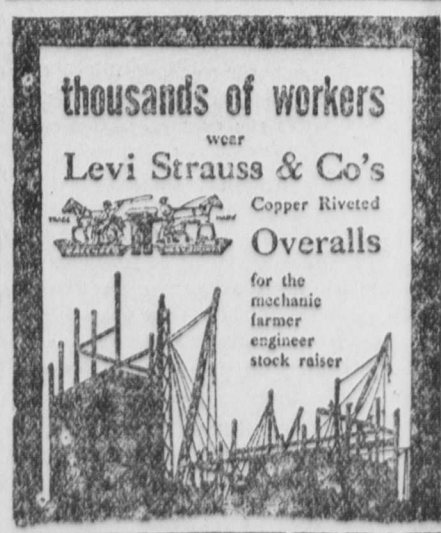

The Austrians, as a race, are constructive, not destructive, and if given a fair opportunity prove themselves the equal of the Dutch or the proverbial Jew in accumulation of homes and worldly goods. And even when, by early environments, they were deprived of an education, their first thought is to educate their children in the language of their adopted country.

The term "dog eaters" belongs to the class of the President's Ananias Club and its appellation does not concern us, as we come from a country of less dogs and more intelligence. In the same category might be termed the word "Dago," as applied to Italians. Instead of being a term of reproach, my friend, Mr. Day, it is a badge of honor, coming down as it does for ages, from the Doges of Venice and Genoa, the latter city the home of Columbus, the discoverer of America.

You may think, Mr. Day, that we are an illiterate class of people, but we beg leave to suggest that the annals of history will show that Austria has produced some of the most illustrious men and women that have ever appeared upon the world's stage. Among which may be mentioned the ill-fated Marie Antoinette and Charlotte, the latter the wife of the misguided Maximilian, not to speak of the second wife of Napoleon the First. In the meantime do not forget Kossuth, the patriot, who came to this country shortly after the Civil War and by his eloquence and patriotism aided the cause of liberty in his country to the extent of over $200,000. Any student of history in the diplomatic line will remember the tilts between the two greatest diplomats of their time—Talleyrand for France and Metternich—for Napoleon's aids was wasted in more than one bout in regard to changing the map of Europe. But why expatiate upon which everybody knows; but while on this subject it might be well to merely mention the fact that when you are in a city of pretensions, your restaurant meals are invariably enscoured with Hungarian music. For wealth and touch of scenery, artistic taste, art, literature, statesmanship and general worthiness, as a class, the Austrian race stands amongst the fore. Justice.

Wisdom Mr. Taft's Strong Point.

There is a degree of inflexibility about Mr Taft when he is right, and he knows he is right, and when the other man is wrong and inclined to be aggressive about it, that is apt to surprise those who seek to take advantage of his boundless good nature. He believes in discipline and he knows how to enforce it. When he was first placed in charge of the Panama Canal he received a delegation of steam shovelers who wanted more pay. They deserved it, and Mr Taft favored giving it to them if possible, but they committed a mistake. They went at it the wrong way. Their attitude was not conciliatory, and finally the spokesman said:

"Let me understand this correctly," said Mr Taft. "Do you mean to say that you will strike now; that you want that raise before I have had a chance to go into the merits of your claim and decide, and that you will strike if you don't get it to-day?"

"That's right," was the retort. "Thank you," said Mr Taft. "Then, gentlemen, will you kindly step out to my secretary and hand him your resignations."

The men retreated. They didn't want to resign and they didn't, and finally the matter was adjusted on a basis which all agreed was just and proper.

A place for a summer home among the Redwoods for the nominal sum of ten dollars is the unique offer of the Redwood Park owners. As an advertising experiment, the company has set aside a considerable number of lots, which will be sold to the first comers for ten dollars, without further payment or conditions of any kind. These advertising lots are not limited to an undesirable portion of the tract, but are solicited by the purchasers from among all the lots of the entire tract in the order that reservations are made.

Redwood Park is located in San Mateo county, about twenty-four miles south of San Francisco, and ten miles by road west of Redwood City. It is on the summit of the range between the bay and the ocean, having an elevation of 2000 feet. Redwood Park is covered with beautiful trees, mostly redwoods, some of which are over 5 feet in diameter. Wild blackberries, strawberries and huckleberries are found in almost unlimited quantities. Purissima Creek, famous for its trout fishing, runs within a short distance of the property. Several varieties of game abound in this immediate section. Climatically there are few places in the state more favored. The tract is less than six miles in a direct line from the sea and the weather is always tempered by the cool ocean breezes. A wide view covering miles of the Pacific is not the least of Redwood Park's many attractions.

A Lazy Liver

May be only a tired liver, or a starved liver. It would be a stupid as well as a savage thing to beat a weary or starved man because he lagged in his work. So in treating the lagging, torpid liver it is a great mistake to lash it with strong drastic drugs. A torpid liver is but an indication of an ill-nourished, enfeebled body whose organs are weary with overwork. Start with the stomach and allied organs of digestion and nutrition. Put them in working order and see how quickly your liver will become active. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has made many marvelous cures of "liver trouble" by its wonderful control of the organs of digestion and nutrition. It restores the normal activity of the stomach, increases the secretions of the blood-making glands, cleanses the system from poisonous accumulations, and so relieves the liver of the burdens imposed upon it by the defection of other organs.

If you have bitter or bad taste in the morning, poor or variable appetite, coated tongue, foul breath, constipated or irregular bowels, feel weak, easily tired, despondent, frequent headaches, pain or distress in "small of back," gnawing or distressed feeling in stomach, perhaps nausea, or "rises" in throat after eating, and kindred symptoms of weak stomach and torpid liver, no medicine will relieve you more promptly or cure you more permanently than Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Perhaps only a part of the above symptoms will be present at one time and yet point to torpid liver or biliousness and weak stomach. Avoid all hot bread and biscuits, griddle cakes and other indigestible food and take the "Golden Medical Discovery" regularly and stick to its use until you are vigorous and strong.

The "Discovery" is non-secret, non-alcoholic, is a glyceric extract of native medicinal roots with a full list of its ingredients printed on each bottle-wrapper and attested under oath. Its ingredients are endorsed and extolled by the most eminent medical writers of the age and are recommended to cure the diseases for which it is advised.
